YOGACHARYA B. K. S. IYENGAR

The Path to Holistic Health: B.K.S. Iyengar

Yogacharya BKS Iyengar, whose 100th birth anniversary was celebrated on December 14, was among those gurus who handed down traditional knowledge to generations of yoga learners.

Guruji, after a short apprenticeship under T Krishnamacharya from Mysuru, settled down to teach in Pune in 1938 with just two regular students. After 81 years, there are over 500 Iyengar yoga centres on six continents with its Mecca at Ramamani Iyengar Memorial Yoga Institute in Pune.

“His personality was so intense,” says certified Iyengar Yoga teacher and research scientist Roger Cole, “that he literally kind of reached across the world and touched people who he never met. He was completely, into yoga. Even though he didn’t teach every style [of yoga], he has influenced every style.” When it comes to describing the life of Iyengar, “extraordinary” is surely a fitting adjective.

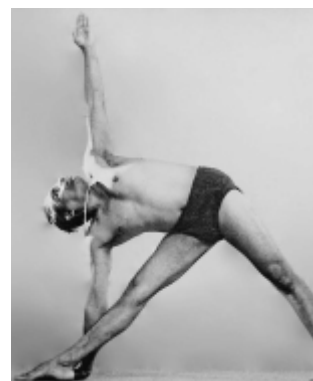

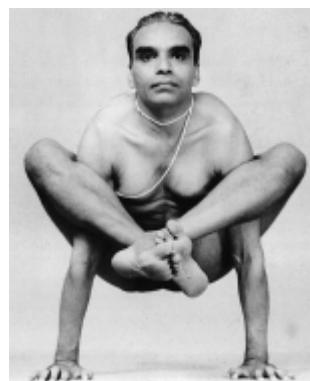

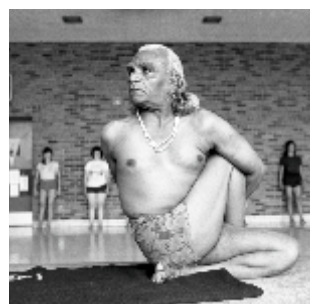

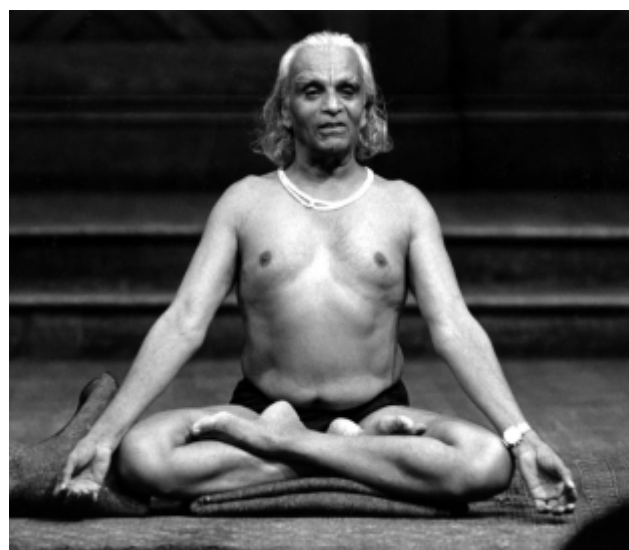

“He set the foundation, he brought [yoga] to the West, and he made it accessible. He broke through the doors and said to the Western world, ‘Practice this, and your life will change.’ I don’t think there was anyone who was strong enough to spread [yoga] and to open all of those doors the way he did.”

“No one can teach like [Iyengar], no one can do what he did. If we simply try to copy, we’ll fail, because his teachings didn’t come from a book or set of rules, they came from direct experience. The thing that’s really going to spread—his true influence—is the inspiration that people got when they studied with him.”

His commitment to his practice at every stage of his life, from when he was in his 20s right up to his 90s, made Iyengar stand apart from others.

“His life was a very simple one, based on practice,” recalls Walden, “and in the last years of his life, his practice was a very devotional practice. He would share with us that through asana he would experience divinity, and that’s why he did asana.

He would always humbly credit all his achievements to his yoga. But the blissful union of one’s body, mind, breath and self-needed an Iyengar to bring it to light.

HERO OF THE MONTH:

FEI has been blessed to have a family like atmosphere at office with different kind of family members – each one working hard to make FEI a globally renowned company.

One such member that we must mention about is our Mr. Bhavin V. Visavadia.

Bhavin was sent to a Supplier's Meet which is organized by reputed defense Public Sector Undertaking (PSU). This annual supplier's meet is arranged in order to address and find solutions to grievances of various suppliers and service providers which is headed by dignitaries, team of directors and vigilance chief.

On such a platform, with an attendance of more than 100 participants, Bhavin took up our issue of non-payment from a couple of customers. He spoke in depth about the difficulties we face cause of this.

His effort was appreciated by one of the directors and our case was taken on fast-track. This helped us recover one of our long pending payments immediately.

We look up to family members like Bhavin who consider the organization as there own and are ready to take up responsibilities for the smooth running.

Three cheers for our Hero!!!

The following branches achieved their "Collection Target" given to them by the Corporate Office for the month of November:

CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

FEI is a deeply routed organisation. It's difficult to even dream to see it in a bad shape.

I have given my heart, soul and everything into it. My family has done all the sacrifices which is beyond imagination for most of you. During our initial years of creating the organisation, I hardly ever invested time or money on my wife and my only son. There were no holidays and no personal time. We hardly met as a family. We also had no free money with us, since whatever was created were put back in to business. So, Abhijeet grew up without any great contribution from his daddy. Shilu kept waiting for that quality time, vacations etc from me.

We went for a few days to Kerala to meet my parents. This was our only vacation or break. No complaints! Many people came in to our life and some of them helped us grow and in the process grew themselves and when they did not like one thing that I did with them (for their own good), they left us forgetting all that we had done for them. Some even went to the extent of making our life difficult or trying to take vengeance on us. Many things that we did or are doing (them included) was done silently and with purest of intentions. I will not talk about and what we have done, since I remember what my mother used to tell us; whatever your right hand does, your left hand should not know. FEI is God's organisation, I was only running it until recent times and now Abhijeet has taken over. Before I made this very important decision, I did consider a few people from within and outside our organisation.

I couldn't find someone who was more eligible than him. He doesn't hate anyone, he is not partial to anyone. He is neither very close to anyone or away from any one. He may not be knowing everything, but he will learn the way I have learned. I am sure he will take FEI to greater heights and will spread it beyond the shores of India. When someone is good and doesn't wish anything bad for anyone and gives his very best, like Paulo Coelho said, 'The entire cosmos will come to assist Abhijeet.'

Thanks a lot. I take this opportunity to wish each one of you and your family a Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year.

Regards
Pratap Nair
