MANY TEACHERS

Sanskrit words for 'teacher' based on their unique abilities...

1. The teacher who gives you information is called: Adhyapak.
2. The one who imparts knowledge combined with information is called: Upadhyaya.
3. The one who imparts skills is called: Acharya.
4. The one who is able to give a deep insight into a subject is called: Pandit.
5. The one who has a visionary view on a subject and teaches you to think in that manner is called: Dhrishta
6. The one who is able to awaken wisdom in you ,leading you from darkness to light, is called : Guru.

Sanskrit is ,perhaps, the only language that has such a refined vocabulary to distinguish the different kinds of teachers.

DID YOU Know

Orange is the only colour of the spectrum whose name was taken from an object, the popular fruit—the orange. It adds spontaneity and a positive way of looking at life.

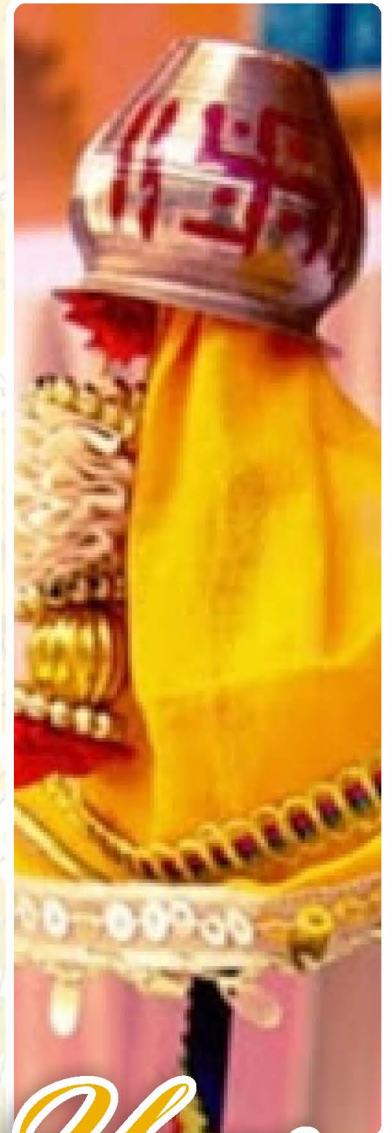

Correct meaning of "OK" is the name of a German engineer Otto Krovens who worked for Ford car company in America. As chief inspector he wrote his initial as OK upon each car he passed. Hence it continued till date as All correct.

Do we know actual full form of some words???

INDIAN NEW YEAR'S DAYS

There are numerous days throughout the year celebrated as New Year's Day in the different regions of India. Observance is determined by whether the lunar calendar is being following or the solar calendar. Those regions which follow the Solar calendar, the new year falls on Baisakhi in North and Central India, Rongali Bihu in Assam, Tamil Putthandu in Tamil Nadu, Vishu in Kerala, Bishuva Sankranti in Odisha and Poila Boishakh in Bengal in the month of the calendar, i.e., Vaishakha. Generally, this day falls during 14th or 15th of the month of April. Those following Lunar calendar consider the month of Chaitra (corresponding to March-April) as the first month of the year, so the new year is celebrated on the first day of this month. Similarly, few regions in India consider the period between consecutive Sankrantis as one month and few others take the period between consecutive Purnimas as a month.

Regional New Year

- Bihu (Assamese)
- Cheti Chand (Sindhi)
- Gudi Padwa (Marathi, Konkani)
- Nyepi (Bali)
- Pana Sankranti (Oriya)
- Pohela Boishakh (Bengali)
- Putthandu (Tamil)
- Ugadi (Telugu, Kannada)
- Vaisakhi (North & Central India, Nepal)
- Vishu (Malayali)

The year was 1555. Portuguese colonial power was at its peak in the 1500's. They destroyed the Zamorins of Calicut and defeated the Sultan of Bijapur. They took away Daman from the Sultan of Gujarat, established a colony in Mylapore, captured Bombay and made Goa as their headquarters. And while they were at it, pretty much unchallenged, they even ruined the ancient Kapaleeswarar Temple to build a Church over it.

Their next target was the super profitable port of Mangalore. Their only bad luck was, just 14 kilometers south of Mangalore was the small settlement of Ullal, ruled then by a feisty 30 year old woman named RANI ABBAKKA CHOWTA.

Initially, they took her lightly and sent a few boats and soldiers to capture and bring her back to Goa but those boats never came back.

Shocked and enraged, they sent a huge fleet of ships this time, under the command of the much-celebrated Admiral Dom Álvaro da Silveira. The admiral soon returned, badly injured and empty handed.

Thereafter, another Portuguese fleet was sent, but only a few injured from the crew managed to make it back.

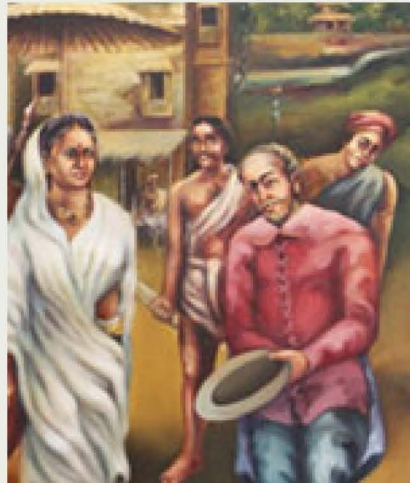

The Portuguese then went on to capture the Mangalore port and the fort anyways, perhaps planning to tackle Rani Abbakka Chowta from the convenient distance of the Mangalore fort.

After the successful capture of Mangalore, a huge army under João Peixoto, an experienced Portuguese General was sent to Ullal.

The brief was simple: Subjugate Ullal and capture Rani Abbakka Chowta.

RANI ABBAKKA CHOWTA

The plan was foolproof, there was no way a 30-year-old lady with a few men could withstand the might of an army of thousands with advanced weapons.

The Portuguese reached Ullal and found it deserted. Rani Abbakka was nowhere in sight.

They roamed around, relaxed and thanked their stars. Just when they were about to call it a victory, Rani Abbakka attacked with 200 of her chosen men. There was chaos all around and many Portuguese lost their lives even without a fight.

General João Peixoto was assassinated, 70 Portuguese were captured, and the rest just ran away.

Rani Abbakka then rode with her men towards Mangalore that same night and laid a siege of the Mangalore fort. She not just broke inside the fort successfully but assassinated Admiral Mascarenhas the Chief of the Portuguese power there and forced the remaining Portuguese to vacate the fort.

She didn't just stop at this but went on to even capture the Portuguese settlement at Kundapura, a full 100 kms, north of Mangalore just to make a point.

The Portuguese finally managed to get back at Rani Abbakka by convincing her estranged husband, to betray her for money. She was arrested and put in the prison where she revolted again and was killed while trying to escape.

Abbakka Chowta was a Jain who fought against the Portuguese for four decades, with an army comprising of both Hindus and Muslims, a full 300 years before the First War of Indian Independence in 1857.

HERE ARE 10 IMPORTANT FEATURES ABOUT MOTERA STADIUM

1) With a seating range of 1,10,000, the stadium will surpass the iconic Melbourne Cricket Ground as the biggest stadium in the world. The stadium has been reconstructed after demolishing the old one which had a seating capacity of 49,000. The architect of the new stadium is the Australian firm Populous.

2) While the new Motera stadium is crowned by its infrastructural supremacy, the old stadium had seen some historic cricketing moments. Motera is the venue where Sunil Gavaskar broke the 10,000 run mark in Test and Kapil Dev surpassed Richard Hadlee's feat of most Test wickets.

3) The newly built Motera Stadium houses 75 Air-conditioned Corporate Boxes.

4) The stadium has a club house with 55 rooms, indoor and outdoor games, restaurants, and Olympic size swimming pool, gymnasium, party hall and a 3D projector theatre.

5) The Motera Stadium has food courts and hospitality area in each stand.

6) The stadium also houses a cricket academy and indoor practice pitches.

7) The stadium has pavilions and a hi-tech media box in addition to a field of play with LED lights which is a first for a stadium in India.

8) The parking facility of the stadium is impressive with capacity for 3,000 cars and 10,000 two wheelers making it the biggest parking area within a stadium premises.

9) If you don't want to take a private car, then that will work just fine as the stadium is linked to Ahmedabad metro.

10) The stadium also has an additional cricket ground with smaller pavilion area. It also has facilities for other sports like football, hockey, basketball etc.
